It's Easy to Cheat
the Common Man With a Sales Tax Increase

THE Arkansas Gazette backs its play to increase the sales tax from 2 to 3 per cent with the familiar plea that it will be "only temporary." I quote this paragraph from the Gazette's page-one editorial Sunday:

"The legislators are not being asked to commit themselves or their successors to a permanent expansion of the state school program. They are only being asked to provide the funds to hold the line until basic reforms can be effected."

Temporary? The 2 per cent sales tax was levied in March, 1935—16 years ago.

"Until basic reforms can be effected?" The 2 per cent sales tax was enacted to save the schools while property assessment reforms were worked out. Are you kidding? Here are some figures:

In the pre-depression year 1929 the total assessment of property in Arkansas was $24 million dollars. Today it's $69 million. After 22 years, hundreds of new industries, a 40-cent inflationary dollar, and skyrocketing property values, we come up with a net gain of only 12 per cent.

It's a miserable showing. How miserable? This will tell you: Against Arkansas' current total of $99 million Mississippi, supposedly a poorer state, shows approximately 1 billion.

Against a state-wide gain of only 12 per cent the Hope school district, with relatively little industrial growth here, shows an assessment gain of 21 per cent. Why?

Well, it could be due in a measure to where a newspaper and community leaders direct the people's attention.

This paper backed the original 2 per cent sales tax plan in 1934 and 1935, during which time the Arkansas Gazette was editorially tongue-tied.

But, true to a trust, we pointed out that as long as the common people were to pay a direct tax on food and clothing the level of property assessments had to be brought up to date. And we've hammered at that ever since.

If the Arkansas Gazette has ever said anything about specific assessment problems in its own city of Little Rock, I haven't seen it—and that goes for 1927 (Governor Martin) and the first state income tax proposal—1935 (Governor Futrell) and the 2 per cent sales tax—and 1951 (Governor McMath and the 3 per cent plan).

Today the Gazette is pushing for the sales tax increase—and this is what the learned professor would tell his class is "significant."

The reason: Under the Minimum School Budget Law of the 1951 regular legislative session local school districts have got to jack up their property assessments—and I understand that in the case of the Little Rock district this runs into astronomical figures. The Little Rock district may lose better than $100,000 state aid.

Surprised, aren't you, that big Little Rock was getting any state aid? Well, that's the reason why the state is out of money—why they want to make the 2 per cent sales tax of 16 years ago 3 per cent today—and probably 4 per cent in another 16 years.

Am I indicting the Arkansas Gazette for inattention, opportunism and a public policy that has damaged the state. Our first obligation is at home. In the case of the schools, this means the assessing level in every community—for on the assessment total rests our ability to construct school buildings, and the ultimate security of the teachers' salaries. This the Gazette has studiously avoided while discussing chronic emergencies and temporary relief.

Because of this failure to attack the assessing problem from Little Rock, where it would be most effective for the state as a whole, we have seen the railroad and other public utility assessments for 1950 right here in our own Hope School District A reduced by $242,000. The utilities were over-assessed, by comparison, and justice finally compelled their relief.

Thus do we, by our neglect of the main issue, invite those most able to pay taxes to get rid of them. And in return, the common people are asked to approve an increase in their own taxes on bread and meat and milk.

This newspaper will support any other tax in the legislature except a higher sales tax.

We went for the 2 per cent tax. But for 3 we won't go.

Big Homecoming Planned for MacArthur

By The Associated Press

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's homecoming will be heralded by big and noisy "welcome" tributes in many communities across the nation.

The programs signalling the general's return after 14 years in the Far East call for parades, receptions, whistle blowing, hornblowing, and ringing of church bells.

Most observances are timed to coincide with MacArthur's arrival in San Francisco, now expected late Tuesday.

San Francisco and New York City are planning what will probably be the most spectacular tributes to the five-star general, ousted from his Far Eastern commands last week by President Truman in a policy dispute.

But the celebrations are not limited to the cities on MacArthur's itinerary. Typical of the various honors is the proclamation of "MacArthur Day" Tuesday in Rotterdam, N. Y.

City officials have launched a series of many of the celebrations, while others are backed by organizations and individual admirers.

The Golden Gate city will give MacArthur an official hero's welcome sometime Wednesday. Plans for a Tuesday reception were cancelled a huge five-star banner to telegraphed that he would not arrive until after dark.

A formal reception at the airport, a parade into San Francisco, and greetings at the city hall had been scheduled.

In New York City, MacArthur is booked for a returning hero's parade on Broadway Friday.

The general wire Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri yesterday that he would arrive in New York late Thursday.

The Waldorf-Astoria hotel, where the MacArthur's plan to stay, readied a huge five-star banner to hang from its flagstaff.

Columbia Broadcasting Company Correspondent George Herman reported yesterday from Tokyo that Mrs. MacArthur said their "current plan is to settle down in New York City."

Rep. Joe Martin (R-Mass.) said in Washington yesterday that the general would fly to the nation's capital from San Francisco on Thursday to address congress that afternoon. Later the general will fly to New York.

MacArthur's tentative itinerary previously scheduled his Washington appearance after the New York welcome.

Baltimore Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro has extended an official invitation to the general to stop over in the city on his way between New York and the nation's capital.

Maryland Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin also asked MacArthur to speak in the old state senate chamber, the site where George Washington resigned his command of the American Continental army.

Father's Night Nets Paisley PTA $97.75

Father's night "bake sale" sponsored by the Paisley PTA, Friday, April 13, netted the organization $97.75, it was learned today.

The sale was conducted by Ben Owen. All rooms were open for inspection and art work of students was on display.

A program directed by Mrs. B. C. Hyatt presented the second grade rhythm band and the boys and girls glee club.

Near Riot as 'Mac' Lands in Hawaii

Honolulu, April 16 — (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur arrived in Honolulu early this morning and a near-riot raged near the ramp of his Constellation transport, the rechristened "Bataan."

Air force police panhandled news photographers trying to record the historic event.

The five-star general, making his first trip to the United States in 14 years, remained aloof to the melee. The scuffle raged a few feet behind him as he shook hands with Admiral Arthur W. Radford, Hawaii's Gov. Ingram Stainback and Army Secretary Frank Pace, Jr.

At least a dozen photographers were roughed up by the air force police.

The "Bataan" — it was "Seap" before MacArthur was stripped of his commands — touched down at Hickam air field at 12:29 a. m. (4:28 a. m. CST) seven minutes later the general set foot on American soil for the first time since his 1944 conference here with President Roosevelt.

With the deposed supreme commander was his wife, his 13-year old son, Arthur, and aides and staff members.

As MacArthur's plane turned broadside into the floodlights of Hickam field the crowd gathered at the airport began to cheer and clap.

Mrs. MacArthur appeared first at the doorway of the plane. Behind her the general waved, his face wreathed in smiles for a brief moment.

He followed Mrs. MacArthur down the ramp. Young Arthur was at his side.

The photographers were trying to get a clear picture of the general's army. They were thwarted by the air force police.

AP Photographer Paul Strong said the police began shoving the photographers around even before the ramp was pushed up to the plane.

One of the Nicest Things About Going Away From Your Home Is Coming Back to It

By HAL BOYLE

New York — (AP) — The nicest thing about going from home is the coming back to it.

It wears an air of newness, and everything about it looks fresher and younger — including the lady of the house.

The old saying that travel is broadening has a double truth. It not only enlarges your knowledge of the other side of the horizon; it redoubles your appreciation of what you return to.

This is more true, however, when husbands make a trip and return. It isn't so true, I find when wives make a journey. They don't have so much to appreciate when they come back.

"What happened to the living room — did some of your paratroop buddies make a combat landing there?" Frances asked after her last visit to relatives in Texas.

"And what is that greasy stuff on the dishes in the sink — penicillin or just ordinary mold? You left the windows in the bedroom open and the rain has ruined the curtains. Hol can you turn a nice home into a battlefield in only three weeks?"

It took her a week to straighten up the place and cancel the tentative orders I had placed with door-to-door salesmen for items ranging from a nycyclopedia to a revolutionary electric blanket designed for dogs.

"You know we don't even have a rover boy," she said. "Can't you ever say no to people who knock on the door and try to sell you something?"

No.

Senior Play Practice in Final Week

The final week of work has begun on the Hope High School Senior play, "Arsenic and Old Lace." With a cast of three girls and eleven boys, this three act comedy, by Joseph Kesselring, is scheduled to be given at the high school auditorium April 20.

The business committee, composed of Jean Nash, Minnie Berry, Emma Downs, Thomas Williams, Buddy Wilson, and Gordon Bensley, has completed distribution of stickers announcing the play.

The advertising committee has placed colorful posters in downtown stores. This committee is composed of Greta Canton, Louise Rexford, Estu Miller and Kelly Marlar.

GOP Calls for Investigation of Asiatic Policy

Washington, April 16 — (AP) — Republicans called today for a searching investigation of administration Asiatic policies as their reply to President Truman's charge that the GOP is trying to confuse the country.

They argued that the arrival here Thursday of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, whose dismissal by Mr. Truman was so intimately connected with Far Eastern policy, would provide a logical standing point.

Sen. Foran (R-Mich.) said that after conferring with MacArthur it ought to set up a senate-house committee for a sweeping investigation of Far Eastern policies.

Ferguson suggested a "Pearl Harbor" type of investigation, referring to time senatehouse committee Vice President Barkley once headed to inquiry into the Hawaiian island disaster while he plunged this country into World War II.

Flying home for a series of hero's welcomes in San Francisco, Washington and New York, MacArthur is expected to tell a joint meeting of the house and senate on Thursday his ideas — "in general," as he put it — about how to defeat communism in Asia.

Up until late yesterday, it was anticipated that MacArthur would come here Friday after a huge welcome being planned for him in New York.

But Rep. Joe Martin of Massachusetts, the house GOP leader, said there had been a change in plans and MacArthur would fly here direct from San Francisco.

Martin said the general will address congress Thursday afternoon (12:30 p. m. EST). He is due in San Francisco late Tuesday.

Martin is author of a resolution by which congress formally will invite MacArthur to address a joint meeting. The resolution probably will be approved tomorrow; no significant opposition was in sight.

There still was doubt whether the five-star general would accept an invitation by the senate armed services committee to testify behind closed doors on the military situation in the Pacific.

He notified Chairman Russell (D-Ga.) of the committee late Saturday. Opponents want to make sure that the bill does pass. It does today it would not be appropriate for him to accept such an invitation while the full congress was considering asking him to address a joint meeting.

Russell agreed, but renewed his request for MacArthur to appear sometime later.

The senate and house foreign relations committees discussed issuing invitations of their own, or at least trying to join the armed services group.

Third Trial of Maxwell Gets Underway Here

The third trial of Herman Maxwell, negro, charged with rape of a white Homestead farm wife near DeAnn in August 1949, got underway here today. Judge Dexter Bush is presiding.

In a packed court but lacking in tension that prevailed in the previous trials, a jury was selected by 11:20 this morning. The jury was all white. Two negroes were on the panel but one disqualified himself and the other was excused by the prosecution.

The jury includes: C. W. Bridges, Jack Gardner, J. W. Franks, Buddy Evans, R. C. Daniels, Alton Johnson, Jack Arnett, Guy Hicks, J. F. May, Floyd Raley, Jimmie Miller and Luther Holloman.

Again the state, headed by Prosecuting Attorney G. W. Lookadoo, assisted by Royce Weisenberger, will ask the death penalty.

Twice previously a Homestead Circuit Court jury found Maxwell guilty and he was sentenced to die. Each time the conviction was appealed to the Arkansas Supreme court which set aside sentences and ordered new trials.

In the first reversal the high court contended that Maxwell's court-appointed did not have enough time to prepare the case. In the second trial Maxwell was defended by Harold Flowers. Pinta Bluff negro attorney, again he was convicted and again the high court reversed on various reasons—one because no negroes were on the jury.

State's witnesses started testimony shortly before noon today.

Opponents of Sales Tax Get Their Chance

Little Rock, April 16 — (AP) — Opponents of the proposed state sales tax increase today got their chance to alter the bill as the Arkansas legislature goes to work.

The special session of the 58th general assembly was to reconvene at noon after a weekend recess.

And the day was set aside in the house for offering amendments to the senate-approved tax hike bill to raise additional school money.

A house vote on the bill is due tomorrow.

At least two amendments are almost sure to be introduced.

Cut the dollar a department in for 15 per cent of the estimated $2,000,000-a-year revenue to be derived from the increase.

Shorten the effective time of the increase to 18 months or less.

Big Danger Democracies Face in Bolshevism Conflict Is Political and Not Military

AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The greatest danger which the democracies face in the conflict with bolshevism is, as I said it, political rather than military.

That is the danger of trying to achieve peace by appeasement.

Maybe your columnist is a bit hipped on the subject of appeasement, but his excuse is that as an observer he had the harrowing experience of following Britain's Prime Minister Chamberlain through the latter's fatal efforts to appease Hitler.

You can't appease an aggressor. There is only one thing a bully understands, and that is force or a threat of force.

So far as America is concerned, we have in abundance what President Truman gave in his April 11, explaining the MacArthur demerit. Referring to the Korean war, Mr. Truman said:

"We are ready at any time to negotiate for a restoration of peace in the area, but we will not negotiate in appeasement. We are only interested in real peace."

That is a categorical statement: The United States will have no part in trying to avoid trouble by appeasement.

However, there are other countries which are so thoroughly appeased by their own "peace" that they are in the path of Bolshevism, aggression, or Western nations which have territorial interests in the Far East.

The Russo-Chinese alliance makes a powerful combination which covers over the rest of Asia like a blanket. It is a power which is a challenge to the United States.

For example, China is a vast country, and it is a power which is a challenge to the United States.

College Heads to Pick Lion's $3000 Winner

El Dorado, Ark.—Three distinguished Southern educators will fly to the El Dorado headquarters of Lion Oil company, April 20, to select the winner of the $3,000, three-year Lion Oil Grand Prize Scholarship.

They are: Dr. Lewis Webster Jones, president of the University of Arkansas; Dr. C. E. Brehm, president of the University of Tennessee; and Dr. John D. Williams, chancellor of the University of Mississippi.

The educators will choose one of six essays for the grand prize award in this year's series of Lion Oil scholarship contests for Southern high school students.

The grand prize scholarship is an additional $3,000 three-year scholarship, giving the winner a total of four full years in college with tuition, room, board, and most living expenses paid.

An additional award of $300 in cash will also be made to the high school teacher who sponsored the essay winning the grand prize.

Dr. Jones headed the panel of judges for the first of the Lion Oil Scholarship contests. Dr. Brehm the second, and Dr. Williams, the third.

Congressman Charged With Taking Money

Washington, April 16—(AP)—Republican Rep. Walter E. Brehm of Ohio, a member of congress for more than eight years, was summoned to trial today on charges of being strengthened in some spots and some families flee homes in lowland areas.

The east coast, meanwhile, counted nine dead Sunday from squalls which upset boats. Five persons were lost in Long Island sound near Norwalk, Conn., one man drowned in Amalia bay and another was reported missing of Rockaway point as boats capsized under the whiplash of high winds.

In the midlands, temperatures skidded as a sluggish mass of cold air moved eastward.

The weather bureau in Chicago said cold Canadian air covers practically all of the plains states, the northern Rockies eastward into the Mississippi and Ohio valleys and Great Lakes region.

Mild weather continued in the far southeast and along the gulf. There were scattered showers in a narrow band from Louisiana northeastward to Virginia.

Illegally accepting political contributions

He was indicted on charges of illegally receiving a total of $1,380 in contributions from Mrs. Clara Soliday and Mrs. Emma S. Craven while they were clerks in his congressional office.

The contributions allegedly were received by Brehm in 1947 and 1948. Neither Mrs. Soliday, a 75-year-old widow from Logan, Ohio, nor Mrs. Craven now works for the congressman.

Brehm, 8, contends he is innocent.

A practicing dentist for 25 years before coming to congress, Brehm now is serving his fifth successive term as representative of the 11th Ohio district. His home is in Millersport.

A federal grand jury last December returned a seven-count indictment, charging Brehm with unlawfully accepting two contributions from Mrs. Soliday, one of $240 in late 1947 and another of $140 in early 1948, and five $200 donations from Mrs. Craven, all in 1948.

The indictment contended these alleged contributions were "for the political purpose of assisting in the finance of (Brehm's) campaign for reelection."

The question of coercion, or forced contributions, does not enter into the case.

The federal corrupt practices act under which Brehm was indicted makes it unlawful for a member of congress to accept campaign contributions from federal employees, even if the donation is freely offered.

One of the counts in the indictment also charges Brehm with accepting a contribution in his congressional office, which is unlawful whether it comes from a federal employee or a private citizen.

Conviction carries a maximum penalty of three years in prison and a $5,000 fine on each count or a total of 21 years in jail; $35,000 in fines.

Conviction of a federal officer does not in itself require a member of congress to give up his Only house action can oust or its own members.

Actress Is Robbed of $335,000

New York, April 16 — (AP) — Robbers entered former Film Actress Hope Hampton's Park avenue mansion from the roof early yesterday, found no one at home, and left by the front door with loot valued at $335,000.

The blonde silent-film actress said haul included $300,000 worth of gems, a silver-blue mink coat worth $15,000, and $15,000 in cash. Police said an additional $5,000 in cash belonging to a house guest also was stolen.

Most of the jewelry, police quoted Miss Hampton as saying, was not insured. The jewelry and $10,000 in cash were carried away by the robbers in a small safe.

She told detectives she recently had taken the valuables from a safe deposit box for removal to a home she is building in Greenwich, Conn. Police quoted her as saying she feared a possible atomic-bomb attack on New York City.

The burglary, police said, took place while Miss Hampton was in Greenwich looking at her new home. Her maid and butler were out, authorities added.

Her luxurious four-story mansion on Park avenue at 91st street, was ransacked in a professional manner. Police said the robbers made their way over several roof tops to enter through an emergency door.

The butler discovered the robbery when he returned to the house early yesterday.

Miss Hampton returned from Greenwich later in the day, displaying an emerald-cut diamond ring she said was worth $100,000.

"I have some ice left," she told reporters.

Miss Hampton, who turned to opera after she left Hollywood, is the widow of Judee Bluewater, motion picture film manufacturer. They were married in 1923. He died Oct. 26, 1946, leaving an estate of $5,000,000.

DOROTHY DIX Clothes Are Important

Dear Miss Dix: Our home economics class is to debate this subject: "How does a well-chosen wardrobe add to a girl's chance of success in life?"

CHARLOTTE

Answer: Well, my dear, next to having a noble character and being endowed with all the higher virtues, the most valuable thing that a girl can possess is a well-chosen wardrobe. It is a first aid to success, and a rod and staff to lean upon in every emergency of life. The ways in which it will help you are too numerous to mention, but here are a few of them:

Every girl's success in the world depends to a great extent on her looks, and pretty clothes are a stand-in for beauty. These needn't be expensive, but they must be suitable to the wearer and adapted to the occasion. Even a homely girl can make herself an eye-catcher if she knows her lines and her colors and picks out clothes that flatter her instead of those that throw a searchlight on her every defect.

Gives Self-Confidence

A well-chosen wardrobe gives a girl self-confidence and poise. The knowledge that she is well dressed sets a woman at her ease and makes her put her best foot foremost, whereas the realization that she looks like a dodd takes every spark of courage out of her and makes her act as dumb as she looks.

A well-chosen wardrobe helps a girl by advertising her intelligence and judgment. A woman's clothes are what she is judged by to a large extent. No girl who applied for a job would ever get it if she was decked out in inappropriate finery, or if she rattled with bangles as she walked. The employer would think that he wanted somebody who looked like a good business woman, not someone who had just dropped in from an all-night party and hadn't had time to change her clothes.

Nor would a girl get the job who had a coat of one color, a blouse of another and a skirt of another and whose wardrobe seemed to be assembled from the scrapbag. An employer would say that such a girl would be slipshod in her work and would pay no heed to details. The girl who would get the job would be one who was clean and well groomed and whose dress was dark and simple and serviceable.

It has been said that clothes do not make the man, but they make about nine-tenths of a woman and she can't be too particular in learning how to dress.

Dear Miss Dix: I have divorced my husband and gone back home to my parents. They don't want me and I am very unhappy. They give me shelter, but that is all. They scold the children and do nothing to make life pleasant for me. My brother and his wife, who live next door, say out in their car every night and never invite me to go along, but when I mention going to work my mother says she has enough to do without taking care of the children. What should I do?

LONEOME

Answer: You should go to work and make your own life, independent of your self-centered family. If your mother isn't willing to take care of the children, put them into a home until you are able to hire someone to look after them for you. Certainly your brother and his wife are very unsympathetic and selfish in their attitude toward you. So is your mother, for that matter. But that makes it all the more imperative that you should get out on your own as soon as possible, for you can expect no help from them.

I gather from your letter that you have only been a housewife and that you have no trade or profession. Sit down and make a careful inventory of your talents or aptitudes. Decide on what you like to do best and then go to some trade school and perfect yourself in that special line, whether it be cooking or sewing or millinery or selling things or whatnot.

If I were you, I would make a business proposition to my father and brother. Tell them it will be money in their pockets to lend you enough to get started in some line that will make you self-supporting, as otherwise you and your children will be a burden on them for many years to come.

But at any rate get busy. Go to work and fill your time so full with interest in your job that you will not have the leisure to mope and grow morbid over how badly you are treated.

Dear Miss Dix: How can a girl tell when a boy loves her?

SCHOOLGIRL

Answer: There is no sure rule. You have to take the boy's word for it and nine times out of ten you can't depend on that. On the ground that actions speak louder than words, the best test of a boy's affection is whether he is always Johnny-on-the-spot, whether he is considerate and kind, and whether he treats you with respect or not.

Ridgway Takes Command in Japan

Tokyo, April 16 — (AP) — A new tenant took over today in Tokyo's huge steel and concrete Dai Ichi building, sent of Allied control over Japan.

There was no fanfare. The new man, simply stepped out of a shiny black limousine and walked into the building at 7:30 a. m. He went up the elevator to the sixth floor and sat down behind a large desk.

He is Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, new Supreme Allied commander.

For more than five years, the Dai Ichi building had been the domain of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, ousted Wednesday by President Truman.

Only 14 minutes before Ridgway walked in, the Constellation bearing MacArthur back to the United States had left Haneda airport.

Ridgway had been at the airport to see his predecessor off. Then he hurried back to central Tokyo to start work. It wasn't long coming.

A little while later, he conferred with Lt. Gen. George Stratemeyer, head of the Far Eastern air forces, and Adm. C. Turner Joy, commander of Far Eastern naval forces.

Then he attended a staff conference.

A staff aide said Ridgway plans no radical changes in the appearances of his new offices.

"He's going to replace some old paintings," the aide said. "And of course he will have pictures of his family on the desk. And he intends to hang some pictures of General MacArthur, General Marshall and the joint chiefs of staff on the walls."

The only furniture moving Ridgway ordered was the shift of a globe from an outer office into his own.

As he progressed through a busy Monday crowds of Japanese and Americans crushed around the entrance.

Funeral for Bevin to Be Private

London, April 16 — (AP) — Private funeral services for former Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin will be held Wednesday afternoon at Golders Green, a London suburb. Cremation will follow.

Only members of the family of the veteran Labor party leader, friends, and close associates will attend the services.

Bevin died Saturday at the age of 70, a month after he resigned from the cabinet post he held since the Labor government came into power in 1945.

His death stepped up the undercurrent tug-of-war for power within the Labor party, a fight that may hasten a general election.

Aligned on one side of Prime Minister Clement Attlee and Herbert Morrison, Bevin's successor as foreign secretary. The two, along with Bevin, controlled party policy and together were able to withstand any serious challenge from a more extreme party faction head.

Attlee and Bevin opposed the idea soon, fearing that Bevin's pleasure at the cost of shortages might cost the government. Bevin, however, reportedly believes a political office might refresh and revitalize zeal in the Labor party.

Attlee and Bevin opposed the idea soon, fearing that Bevin's pleasure at the cost of shortages might cost the government. Bevin, however, reportedly believes a political office might refresh and revitalize zeal in the Labor party.

Bevin died Saturday at the age of 70, a month after he resigned from the cabinet post he held since the Labor government came into power in 1945.

His death stepped up the undercurrent tug-of-war for power within the Labor party, a fight that may hasten a general election.

Aligned on one side of Prime Minister Clement Attlee and Herbert Morrison, Bevin's successor as foreign secretary. The two, along with Bevin, controlled party policy and together were able to withstand any serious challenge from a more extreme party faction head.

Oldtimers Lead Rocks
in 3 Games

By The Associated Press

Stingy pitching by three "old timers" has vaulted the Little Rock Travelers into a tie for the Northern association lead.

At the finish of the season's first series, the usually last place Trava

Monday found themselves in the slidy atmosphere of first place with Luke Appling's Memphis

Chicks.

Sidewinder Miln Johnson flipped

a fourhitter as the Rocks nipped highly rated Nashville in the con-son opener. Another veteran, Lofly

Dutch McCall threw a three-hitter at the Vols to win Saturday night, and tiny Verne Williamson also gave up just three to win the second game of Sunday's doubleheader,

2-1. The game was halied by darkness after six innings.

The Vols landed out for 16 hits off four Little Rock hurlers in the opener, 11-7, for their only victorial in the four games.

Memphis gained a top spot tie by blanking Chattanooga, 2-0, in the afterpiece of their doubleheader.

The Lookouts handed the Chicks their first setback in the opener,

3-0, behalving Chalkley dield out three hits in the Memphis victory, one more than Royce Chandler allowed the Chicks.

In the first game, Memphis'

pitched well enough to win, but shod by fielding set up four of Chattanooga's five runs.

The Birmingham Barons lost a day off Monday when they were bounced, 12-3, by New Orleans in the league's only single game.

They had been promised freedom from a Monday workout by Manager Johnny Marion if they swept the series with the Pals. Four Baron pitchers were combed for 20 hits in the debacle.

Atlanta took both halves of its twin bill with Mobile, 6-4 and 7-5.

Lookie Andy Elko relieved in both games and got credit for two victories.

A new set of curtain raisers is in the works for Tuesday. Memphis moves to New Orleans; Atlanta to Nashville; Little Rock to Mobile; and Birmingham to Chat-

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

Ann Arbor, Mich., April 16 — When George Siler was a University of Michigan sophomore, he pitched against Syracuse, he struck out 16 men in seven innings, hit three in seven and stole bases. His son, Dave, now a Princeton soph pitcher, will have a tough time beating that record because he's not that kind of hater. Siler, senior left, .437 for the seasons at Michigan. Notre Dame already has announced that there will be no public ticket sale for the Southern Methodist game Oct. 13 that's the first time since the Army game of 1947. And two of the other three home games, against Indiana and Purdue, may be approaching the sellout stage. May be coincidental that the last two must give the Irish a hassle line 1948. Football coaches in this area all are raving, or asking questions, about Biggie Munn's big turnout of big boys at Michigan State.

Stringing Alone

When Don McEwen, Michigan's speedy two-miler from Ottawa, raced in Los Angeles last spring, he went all out to win, wailing and staggering down the stretch. At the finish Coach Don Canham caught him and started to ask how he felt but McEwen was too breathless to answer. Just then a broadcaster came along with a microphone and the same question: "How did you feel when you hit the tape?" McEwen grinned: "I didn't know whether I'd break the tape or it would snap back and knock me flat on my back."

Tourist Tales

John Kobs, Michigan State baseball coach, raises the question: "Now do you know when a track coach is working?" Every time I see one he's just standing around. Kobs does better standing on one foot and leaning against the dugout wall. Bob Snyder, who helped Frank Leahy over the weekend, argues that "the little school where I used to coach" gets better material than Notre Dame. By the "little school" Bob meant Toledo U., not the L. A. Rams. Neatest needling job we've heard enroute were the exchanges between Kentucky's Bar Ryan and Adolph Rupp, each accusing the other of "getting everything around the school. It isn't serious as long as they both get good material. After getting the umpteenth request for a picture of a crippled kid, Maur Mipis, Notre Dame's athletic publicity secretary, exploded. "If we ever get a request from a completely healthy person, I'll send him everything we have."

A Perry Good Kid

Michigan coaches are wondering if there's anything 10-year-old Low Perry can't do. As a sophomore, Perry stepped into the football lineup last fall as an offensive end and gained 327 yards and six safety men on defense. He's a six foot two high jumper, can broad jump close to 20 feet and the other day he went for njoy with the quarter miler on the track and stayed right with him. Track Coach Don Canham figures Lowell can run the 440 in less than 50 seconds.

Globetrotters in 10th Win

St. Louis, April 16 — The Harlem Globetrotters romped to their tenth victory last night in the cross-country series with the college allstars.

The score was 70-61.

The collegians have four victories in the series.

The teams drew another record crowd — 17,187 fans. It was the largest crowd ever to see a basketball game in St. Louis.

STAR gave me a wry glance. "Wouldn't it be odd if Rose Bidauld's story were on the level? Look at it—Rose and Stone, alone in her house, heard a pistol shot in the room outside. Larry ran out first. It's possible that Larry saw the killer, that he's known the killer from the start."</

Explanation of the New GI Insurance

By JAMEU MARLOW

Washington, April 15 — (AP) — This is an explanation of the new — and now — $10,000 government insurance for servicemen.

It covers all men in service on or after June 27, 1950 and for 120 days after getting out. What of those who died as a result of service on or after June 27 and before this new insurance becomes law?

The next of kin will receive $10,000 insurance. It will not be in a lump sum but in monthly installments of about $92.00 for 20 months, or 10 years.

Until now men in service had no insurance unless they bought what is called national service life insurance (NSLI). For this they had to pay. They could buy up to $10,000 worth, or any part of it. Many did not buy it.

When those who did buy it got out, they could keep the insurance. But they had to pay for it, of course. But they could get NSLI "term" or permanent insurance. The most they could have was $10,000.

Most World War II veterans dropped the NSLI when they got out. Only about 4,000,000 veterans of that war still have it, all of which is cheaper than the regular commercial insurance.

Some, but not all, of the men who entered the service since World War II have bought, and have been paying for, this NSLI. The many veterans who kept NSLI after the war and were called back since June 27 have kept on paying.

Now comes a question: what about the man who had — or didn't have — NSLI and was killed on or after June 27, 1950. How much of the new free $10,000 insurance will his next of kin get?

If he had $10,000 NSLI, his survivors will get the full $10,000 but none of the free $10,000. If he had some NSLI, but not $10,000 worth, the government will pay the survivor the difference between his NSLI and the $10,000 free insurance. If he had no NSLI at all, the survivors will get $10,000 free.

In short, the purpose of this soon to be law is to see that the survivors of a serviceman get $10,000 insurance, but no more, from the government, provided he dies as a result of service or within 120 days after getting out.

None of this free $10,000 will be taxable in any way. And none of it can be claimed by creditors of the dead serviceman or his family. Now come some more questions:

Suppose a man now in service, or one called back into service, has some NSLI for which he's been paying. Now he can be protected with $10,000 insurance free. What can he do about his NSLI? One of several ways:

1. If he has NSLI "term" coverage, he doesn't have to pay for it while in service. When he gets out he can simply resume paying on that NSLI "term." And he won't have to take a medical examination to get it again.

2. If he had permanent NSLI, he can keep on paying for it while in service but with much smaller payments than when he was out of service. So, when he again is out of service, he'll still have his NSLI permanent policy and will resume making the regular payments.

3. He can surrender his NSLI for its cash value. Within 120 days after leaving the service, he can get his NSLI back, by applying for it, but—

Then he'll have to pay back to the government the cash surrender value which he received and pay up a small part of the premiums he would have been paying if he hadn't surrendered the policy at all. He can resume his old NSLI without a medical examination.

4. Or, if he gave up his NSLI, got the cash surrender value, and now is out of service and wants to resume it but doesn't have that cash value to pay back, he can resume the policy but at the rate for his age when he does resume. So the premiums in that case will be a little higher than formerly since he first took out that policy at a younger age.

But what of the men now in service, or who will be going in, who have no NSLI but will be covered by the free insurance? What can they do, when they get out, about continuing some kind of government insurance?

1. Within 120 days after getting out, they can apply for NSLI "term" up to $10,000 — and get it without a medical examination. But the price of it will increase every five years as the man gets older. This "term" insurance, for the man who never had it before, can't be converted into a permanent policy.

(When a serviceman who had bought the old NSLI insurance — before this law — got out, he could get it changed from "term" insurance to the permanent kind. That's a big difference made by the new law. Now a man buying NSLI for the first time can't get permanent insurance unless he's disabled.)

2. If he disabled in service, making him ineligible for normal commercial insurance, a man when he gets out can buy NSLI on a term or permanent basis, and, of course, he'll have to start paying for it.

3. If totally disabled in service, a man when he gets out will get government insurance up to $10,000 free so long as he is totally disabled.

Plus, the last of our planets to be discovered, travels on a path which is at an angle 17 degrees from that of the earth.

Access to FBI Files Argued

Washington, April 16 — (AP) — A reported argument with the White House over access to FBI files is said to be blocking senate action on President Truman's nomination to the subversive activities control board.

A senator in close touch with negotiations for the documents said today "the situation would have been cleared up weeks ago if the President had been willing to cooperate and turn over those files to congress." The senator added not to be named.

"Long ago," he told a reporter, "the senate judiciary committee asked for the reports on the routine investigations the FBI made of the President's nominees to the control board."

"The committee was told the reports had been sent to the White House and that the matter would have to be discussed with presidential aide Donald Dawson."

The White House proposed, the senator said, that the FBI documents be made available for examination only by the committee chairman, Senator McCarran (D-Nev.).

"The committee turned that down as not at all satisfactory," this informant said.

"Then the White House offered to let the chairman of the subcommittee in charge of the nominations look at the reports. That offer also was rejected."

"At present, negotiations are centering on whether the reports can be made available to all of the subcommittee members. Whether anything comes of that remains to be seen."

In other similar cases in the past, Mr. Truman has sometimes denied and sometimes granted senators access to some FBI files. He has argued they are confidential and that he is under no obligation to furnish them to congress.

The five-member subversive activities board was created under the internal security law which congress enacted last September over Mr. Truman's veto.

The President first sent his nominations to the senate last November. The judiciary committee took no action, so Mr. Truman resubmitted them to the new congress on Feb. 12. The nominations still are on the shelf.

Through the window of his control room, Chief Operator Deakin checks a line of gas compressors, while an assistant operates the remote control board.

JOHN DEAKIN* is a Station Chief Operator for Texas Eastern. His job is to keep a powerful natural gas compressor station on the Inch Lines operating smoothly every day in the year, pumping essential fuel for civilian needs and our increasing national defense requirements.

Operating a plant bigger than many an ocean liner requires many talents. John Deakin must know the inner workings of scores of complicated machines at his station.

He must know men, too. Running a compressor station calls for a smooth, alert operating team of specialists.

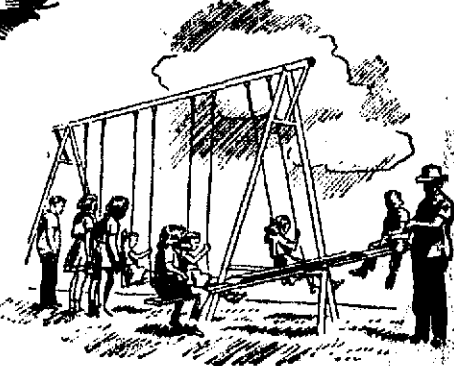

John is also unofficial "mayor" and board of commissioners for the families who live at the station and form a small community within the larger community of your county. And, like the company he works for, John Deakin feels that a big part of his job is being a good citizen of your community.

*John Deakin's name is fictitious. He represents the chief operators who, in real life, manage 25 natural gas compressor stations on the Inch Lines.

Deakin's expert eyes help an operator measure adjustments on a high speed 2,000-horsepower compressor unit.

Recreation is Deakin's job too. As unofficial "Park Commissioner", he provides gentle horsepower for children who live at the station.
